The cancer memoir, "From Both Sides", was among 50 titles listed out of 328 for the year to be given a 2019 Mariner Award from the Bewildering Stories website. According to Don Webb, Managing Editor of Bewildering Stories, "Also called "The Annual Review" by long tradition, the Mariner Awards are Bewildering Stories' most signal honor. The titles listed are the ones that the Review Editors have rated most highly in the past year, ones we would recommend- for one reason or another- not only to friends or relatives but to everyone. The 50 works listed range from serious to humorous and playful. They're all distinguished by giving us food for thought in a well-prepared dish." Here is the link to the article listing:

Well deserved recognition. This is a beautifully written honest eloquent but also raw (enough...you need to read the truth)...account of one woman's journey- that still continues to this day.
